

Arctic Adventurer Scholarship

This summer, head to the Arctic with the Climate One Arctic Adventurer Scholarship!

Climate One at the Commonwealth Club is offering an incredible opportunity to a deserving Bay Area high school student to travel to the Arctic on a full scholarship. For the last nine years, we have partnered with youth travel organizations to support students adventuring to the top of the world. This year, we are pleased to offer a scholarship opportunity to join a New York Times Student Journey to Iceland, where students will spend two weeks exploring energy and climate change at the arctic circle. The goal of the Arctic Adventure Scholarship is to ensure the next generation has an opportunity to develop a deep understanding of climate change and its impacts on one of the most important and vulnerable parts of the planet.

Eligibility

In order to be eligible for this Climate One scholarship, you must be in high school at the time of application (including students who expect to graduate this spring). Applicants are required to attend the upcoming Climate One event, “Me vs. We: What Matters Most for Climate Action?” on February 26 at 6:30 pm, 110 The Embarcadero in San Francisco.

“When I look where I am right now in the Arctic, I feel like this is the place I want to spend my whole life trying to save.”

-Paloma Siegel
2016 Climate One Arctic Adventurer

Timeline

Application deadline is March 15, 2020. Please note that in addition to event attendance, the official application includes two short essay questions and two teacher reference forms, so we recommend reviewing the application requirements and getting started as soon as possible.

Application Review Process

To be eligible for the Climate One scholarship, students must apply directly and be admitted to the New York Times Student Journey to Iceland. Selection of the scholarship recipient is determined by Climate One. See detailed instructions below.
